DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's arguments filed 6/5/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claim 11 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 11 constitutes a process limitation and is unclear how the claim further structurally limits the independent claim. Applicant is recommended to amend the claim to include a control mechanism which controls the speed of the motors as claimed.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 1744

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

Claims 1-3, 5 and 9 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being obvious in view of USP 5,309,593 (Yonechara) in view of USP 5,483,718 (Biechert et al.).

Figures 1 and 3 illustrate the embodiment which anticipates the claims. The reference discloses a device which comprises a housing (1) having a vibrating plate (8) which can be equipped with a cloth (19) for cleaning a hard surface. The device also includes a handle (18) which would to some degree, inherently oscillate with respect to the housing (1). The housing includes an eccentric weight (2) mounted on a rotating shaft (6) which are connected to an arm (4) connected to the vibrating plate (8).

Art Unit: 1744

The vibrations are substantially in a vertical direction. The frequency of oscillations are in the range claimed (see col.6, lines 1-5; col.8, lines 5-10). The Yonechara floor cleaner includes a power cord instead of a battery. However, Biechert et al. describes an industrial floor cleaner which includes re-chargeable batteries so as to free the operator from an electrical cord. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to provide the Yonechara floor cleaner with re-chargeable batteries as taught in Biechert et al. in order to free the operator using the Yonechara cleaner from the limitations of a power cord.

Claim 8 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over USP 5,309,593 (Yonechara) and USP 5,483,718 (Biechert et al.) and further in view of US patent 5,950,270 (Tono).

The Yonechara patent is silent as to providing a vibration damping means between the handle and vibration plate. The Tono patent discloses a machine having a vibrating plate connected to a manual handle in which there is positioned a shock dampening means (8) to reduce the vibration to the handle. It would have been obvious to one skilled in the art to provide the dampening means (8) of the Tono patent in the device of the Yonechara device for the know advantage of reducing shock to the handle.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's amendments to the claims have overcome the previous objections and rejections under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph.

Applicant's arguments concerning the rejection in view of Tapper et al. are persuasive and the rejections withdrawn.

Claim 11 would be allowable if rewritten to overcome the rejection(s) under 35 U.S.C. 112, 2nd paragraph, set forth in this Office action and to include all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

As allowable subject matter has been indicated, applicant's reply must either comply with all formal requirements or specifically traverse each requirement not complied with. See 37 CFR 1.111(b) and MPEP § 707.07(a).

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
